ENTER TO LEARN . . . GO OUT TO SERVE

Through these portals for nine decades, students have passed in pursuit of the academic muse. Shepherd College is a landmark of higher education throughout West Virginia's eastern panhandle and the tri-state area. It is located in Shepherdstown, West Virginia, on the banks of the peaceful Cohongoroota. The Indians gave this name to the Potomac and it was chosen as the name for the college yearbook. The Cohongoroota, "River of the Wild Geese Flying", denotes calmness and serenity. High above Potomac's cliffs stands the Rumsey Monument, a favorite rendezvous of students. The Alma Mater also expresses the importance of the river in the school's tradition. Shepherd College represents a blending of the traditions of a historic town with the expansion of a modern educational institution.

Since its founding, Shepherd College has grown to a fully accredited four-year college with an enrollment of nine hundred students. The college is accredited by the North Central Association, the Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, is a member of the Association of American Colleges, and is on the approved list of the American Association of University Women.

AT SHEPHERD,

Registration lines move quickly and soon students learn to linger in the library. Its periodical shelves hold the latest professional journals; its racks carry the latest home town paper.

Shepherdstown is a quaint little village; Main Street meandering up to the village's lone stop light, spires of old stone churches on the horizon, brick sidewalks, a snack bar used during a student's leisure hours, and a volunteer fire department with always a few student firemen.

Expansion of Shepherd College's physical plant provides a sharp contrast to the old stone and brick buildings of Shepherdstown. Such modern buildings as Turner Hall, the new student activities building, and the new cafeteria are the most recent products of a long-range building program which will eventually include a new library and a fine arts building.

TOWN AND CAMPUS MERGE

Not uncommon are such campus scenes—students spending leisure moments pondering by the town Run in the shade of the trees surrounding McMurrin Hall or sitting on the Wall after a tough hour in class. The familiar ringing of bells marks the start of the long journey to another class. Beautiful trees tinted by autumn enhance the splendor of the campus. The snows of winter seem to add a certain purity to the scene. Spring and the regeneration of nature put life back into campus activities.

Social activities at Shepherd College are varied—from informal to formal functions. Student body activities, organizational social affairs provide a release from the stress and strains of academic pursuits. Formal dances, banquets, teas, picnics, and sock hops mark the usual year—and 1962 was a very full one.

Students adjust rapidly to new Ram's Den, center of social activity on campus and pride of our brand new Student Union building.

The symbolism of the dramatic masks does not belong to drama alone — but to all the arts.

The fine arts program at Shepherd provides an opportunity for interested and talented students to participate in drama, art, and music.

The Fine Arts Festival in the spring climaxes a year of student work in plays, painting, and musical groups.

"The Intruder"

ACTIVITIES BEYOND THE CAMPUS

Students spend spare time in activities ranging from community projects to outside study of chosen field. Field trips in art, drama, biology, home economics, and journalism add new dimensions to these fields. Shepherd's proximity to Washington offers students many cultural advantages as the art students below right, visiting the National Cathedral, will testify.

Under Shepherd's broad Health and Physical Education program students have the opportunity to develop physical skills and talents through participation in Intercollegiate Varsity athletics, an expanding intramural program and Physical Education classes under the supervision of well qualified instructors.

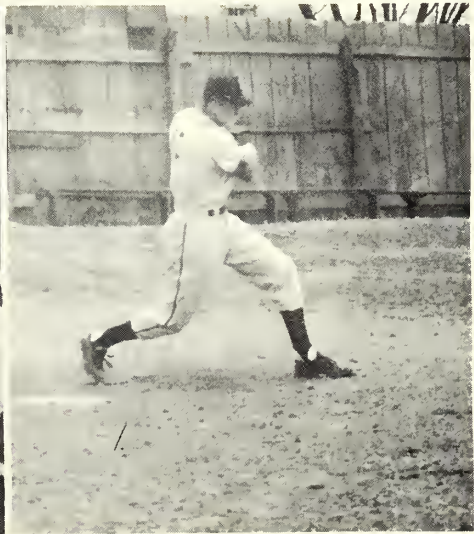

Shepherd's varsity athletic teams compete in Intercollegiate football, basketball, track, baseball and swimming.

Intramural programs cover all phases of athletic endeavor. Contests are organized by students under faculty supervision.

Physical Education classes provide opportunity to develop sportsmanship, participation with others and insight into the aims of the Health and Physical Education program.

Students enjoy pleasant surroundings on campus: Dorm lounges, the new Rom's Den, and the soon-to-open Shepherd, Potomac-Shenandoah, Blue and Grey, and Rumsey lounges in the Student Union Building.

Students also find relaxation at haunts of their own choosing; Main Street, not as carefully planned as the Student Union, but very pleasant.

ALMA MATER

Close beside Potomac's waters,
Of historic fame,
Stands our noble Alma Mater
Glorious her name.

Chorus

Lift the chorus, speed it onward,
Loud her praises sing.
Hail to thee, dear Shepherd
College
Hail, all hail, we sing.

Nestled in a quiet hamlet,
'Neath the azure blue,
Sends she forth her sons and daughters
Loyal, loving, true.

Fondly in our memory resting,
Happy, gladsome days,
Still to thee, dear Alma Mater,
Offer we our praise.

The "Story of Shepherd" will record for the year 1961-62 major steps in the building of a "Greater and Better Shepherd College" to meet the needs of a steadily growing student body. Emphasis focused on educational excellence which has been recognized through the establishment of the Joseph McMurren Scholar program, a selective admissions policy, and higher standards for graduation. We have witnessed campus expansion with the erection of three major buildings for better student living: the Ella May Turner Hall for Women, The College Dining Hall, and the Student Activities Building.

This is the history of 1961-62. I am looking forward to an even greater and better year in 1962-63.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Tau Kappa Epsilon, a relative newcomer on the national fraternity scene, boasts the largest chapter strength in the national fraternity system. The canes of cherry and grey carried by Epsilon Xi's pledges are familiar sights on the Shepherd Campus.

Traditional social functions of Epsilon Xi's chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon include the Red Carnation Ball, initiation banquet, winter formal, and alumni homecoming banquet. However, TKE functions go far beyond social activity. The organization also strives for fraternal harmony and high scholastic standing.

This year's activities included many social functions, installation of a new chapter of TKE at Frostburg State Teachers College, and sponsorship of Epsilon Xi's annual basketball tournament which included participation by fifteen TKE chapters this year.

Epsilon Xi's chapter plans to take great strides next year with the addition of a fraternity house—the first such house on campus.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

Sandra Osbourne, President

The goals of the IRC are to promote campus interest in world affairs, to provide means of furthering these interests, to give each student a lasting interest in international relations and to impart a sense of individual responsibility in world affairs.

The club is sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association and is affiliated with the American Association of International Relations Clubs.

This past year, the club sponsored the appearance of Mr. Armstead Lee of the U.S. Embassy in Belgium at the United Nations Day assembly. In addition to this the club invited speakers on civil defense and conflicting ideologies in the world today to appear before the group.

Circle K is the college branch of Kiwanis International. The Shepherd College chapter of Circle K, the second oldest in West Virginia, is now celebrating a decade of service to the school and community. Over the past ten years Circle K has lent a helpful hand to numerous community projects, most of them involving children.

During this year, 1961-62, the club has helped with the Kids Day program in Martinsburg, initiated a clothing drive for needy children in Shepherdstown, and supported the Blood Mobile on campus.

The Home Economics club offers to students majoring and minoring in this field an opportunity to extend learning beyond the classroom. A greater understanding of the total program can be gained from participation in a wide range of formal and enjoyable activities — field trips, lectures, discussions — and participation in local, state and national Home Economics activities. These add to each girl's appreciation of the broadest concepts in this field of education.

PICKET

Since its founding in 1896, the goals of the Shepherd College Picket have been to inform clearly all persons associated with the College and to present College events through articles and pictures.

With the February 21 issue the Picket initiated many new features which greatly improved its appearance. Among the new features were more conservative headlines, handset type in lieu of machine set type previously employed, a feasible letters-to-the-editor column, and a student opinion column.

The Picket is an important public relations instrument supported and backed by faculty and students.

LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

Sixty-three of Shepherd's students, faculty and administrators gathered at Cacapon State Park on November 3-4 for the Seventh Annual Leadership Conference. Professor Maynard F. Brass opened the conference with the Key-note address, "Your Challenge to Shepherd Students."

Seminars were held to discuss College traditions, public relations, the Student Union program and the honor system. The students and faculty discussed possible solutions to problems in these areas. An important part of the conference was a discussion on Civil Defense which followed a report by Professor James Hafer and Mr. Richard L. Judd, of the college committee on Civil Defense.

A summary session concluded the conference. The meeting ended as it began with much enthusiasm and determination to reach greater goals. It was the general consensus that the 1961 conference was one of Shepherd's best.

FOOTBALL

Coach Jesse Riggleman, in his sixth season as head coach at Shepherd, came through with another winning year, the final ledger reading 5-2. Coach Riggleman was ably assisted throughout the year by Assistant Coach Dick Bowers, who tutored the Rams for the first time.

The Rams piled up 182 points in the seven games, averaging 16 an outing and held the opposition to only 72 markers, slightly over ten a game. Included in Shepherd's successes were shutout wins over arch-rival Potomac State, Gallaudet and Bridgewater and a very convincing trouncing of highly-regarded Shippensburg. It was the second year in a row, after a famine of over thirty seasons, that the Rams defeated the Red Raiders.

Pete Menke, a team member himself, presents the Calvin Dirting trophy to Coach Riggleman and co-captains Rankin, Overton and Stup. The trophy is symbolic of three consecutive victories over arch-rival Potomac State. The Rams blanked the Catamounts easily 32-0 this season.

FOOTBALL

The Ram hoopsters, guided by Coach Richard Bowers, returned a 9-8 mark in regular season battles. Shepherd was especially strong in the rebounding department, finishing second in the 17-team WVIAC. Roscoe Dean paced the Rams with a healthy 17.6 scoring average and also led in rebounding, garnering 15.4 stray shots a game. He enjoyed able assistance from Scott Douglas and Bill Wills in both departments.

Shepherd suffered another disheartening setback in tournament play, succumbing to West Liberty, 73-70. The Rams lost out at the foul line for they outscored West Liberty by two field goals.

Coach Erwin Fieger came up with a winning team for the second successive season as his Ram mermen posted a final slate of 5-4. And once again Shepherd made an outstanding showing in the state swimming meet, this year finishing second after copping the crown in the 1961 competition.

Ted Veeder and Lee Cook paced another strong squad, and with Ric Hutterly, established new standards in their individual events. Records fell by the wayside as Cook bettered his times in the 50 and 100 yard freestyles, Veeder shattered the 220 yard freestyle mark, and Hutterly sped to a new backstroke standard.

BASEBALL

The Shepherd diamond squad, under the able direction of Coach Richard Bowers, turned in a very commendable 10-4 record. Swatsmiths like John Covalt, Tom Martin, Terry Smith, Jerry Stuckey, Doug Tucker and Tony Whitmore took dead aim at enemy fences with booming bats. A talented five-man hurling corps, notably Ed Wimer, Phil Fearnaw, Paul Eaton, Ronnie Pyles, and Bill Funkhouser made life miserable for enemy batters.

A bench deep in quality and quantity enabled Coach Bowers to juggle his lineup with resounding success.

EDITOR'S THIRTY

As I prepare to clean off my official desk for the last time, rub the grease pencil off my hands, and wistfully sit at my aging typewriter, I feel I must make a parting note of the trials and tribulations of producing the 1962 COHONGOROOTA. As I look back over the last year, I realize these months were the busiest of my life—and they slipped away all too quickly. Picture appointments, typing, cropping, and deadlines were always pressing. It has been a challenging, difficult and rewarding time, when Mrs. Smith's classroom seemed to be our only home. It has been a time of lasting friendships, of cooperation of staff members willing to go "that extra mile."

I want to thank personally those members who have carried more than their fair share of the load: Irma Speg, my assistant editor, who did many various jobs from helping with layouts to typing, to tracking down that last minute picture; Annamae Rohanic, as organization editor, displayed a hidden skill in locating organization presidents who were delinquent in supplying information for copy; Bernese Culhane who came to my rescue as class editor at a very late date; Carol Ann Thacher who catalogued all the information needed for the faculty and administration section; Kent Baker and Kenny Waldeck who whipped up the sports section at the last minute because of delays in receiving needed pictures and information; Tom Kelch and Susan Miller who wrote brilliant opening section copy; Dick Demorest for his efficient and imaginative photography; to my typists, Ed Knicely and Darlene Harmon, who typed till their fingers were sore; the PICKET who supplied many needed pictures; and last but not least, the most important person who has made my editorship possible, Mrs. Veta Lee Smith, who has aided me in all ways and given up many enduring hours to make this production possible.

I also want to thank Jeff Overby, our yearbook representative, for his timely suggestions and visits in aid of the production of this book.

The production of the yearbook is a long, arduous task, which reaps great rewards for those sturdy souls who have the ambition to accomplish something of lasting merit during their college career. The fruits of their efforts will go into numerous homes to be treasured for years to come, a lasting memorial to a staff's perseverance, responsibility, and talent.

And so, we the 1962 COHONGOROOTA staff, have presented to you this yearbook with great expectations that in years to come, you can look back through these pages and recall with happiness the torment of registration, the many strangers who became friends, the favorite professors, the many new and trying experiences, and the seemingly never-ceasing hours of study.

Yes, memories of Shepherd College—not discarded—but cherished and preserved in this "your 1962 COHONGOROOTA."
